NAVY DEPARTMENT SLOW IN AGREEING TO CONVOY SYSTEMDilatory Tactics Serious Handicap During Early Part of War, Says Sims.*HOME PLANS PREFERRED*By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 12.—Disregard by the Navy Department of the recommendations to adopt the convoy system was described by Admiral Sims today as infinitely more serious in its effect on the war than other causes of alleged inefficiency cited in previous testimony before the Senate committee.Admiral Sims said that early in 1917 the Allies were compelled by the submarine to adopt the convoy plan for protecting shipping and that on May 1 he urgently recommended that the United States give its cooperation but it was not until June 23 that Secretary Daniels replied he considered American vessels having armed guards were safer when sailing independently.*The admiral said he again urged the immediate adoption of the convoy system and said armament merchantmen did not offer sufficient safeguard against submarine attacks. Only July 1 he received a cable outlining an entirely new plan of protecting merchant ships formulated by the department. He said, was widely in variance with the British and French systems and which he cabled the department would be a fundamental military error, resulting in direct assistance to the enemy.*In answer the Navy Department submitted another plan and asked that he present it to the British admiralty. He did so and was told that the proposal had been tried early in the war without success and that the admiralty desired assurance of American cooperation in the convoy plan so the first convoy might sail from New York July 8.*About the same time Admiral Jellicoe wrote to him expressing grave apprehension for the success of the convoy system unless the United States decided to participate.*Finally on July 22 the Navy Department accepted the convoy plan for troop ships and later accepted it for supply vessels, the admiral testified.*GILDNER DEATH PROBED*Slayer of Physician at Seaghtons, Unknown. "CONCRETE POWER INTERPRETED."

In sustaining the validity of the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution the United States District Court of New Jersey has given an interpretation of "concurrent power," as used in the amendment, which will be helpful to those who have not clearly understood how the term was to be applied to the national prohibition act. In dismissing suits brought to prevent the enforcement of the National Prohibition Act in New Jersey, the court gave the following explanation of the effect of the word "concurrent":

"The failure of Congress to enact enforcing legislation would not affect the right of the states to do so. In such case, if the state acted, its legislation would be the only rule of the subject. However, such legislation would be operative only within the boundaries of the state. This is not cause of any expressed limitation in the amendment, but solely for the reason that its jurisdiction extends no further.

"But when Congress acts to enforce this amendment, its command extends throughout the Union. This also is not due to any expressed authority found in the amendment, but because its action, if properly sustained, is the whole law of the land, whether it acts independently of and without consulting the states. Whether the states concur therein is a matter for their sole determination. Failure on their part to cooperate with Congress casts the duty of enforcing the amendment within the boundaries of the noncon-current states solely on the United States authority."

If this opinion is confirmed by the United States Supreme Court it will be a reiteration of the principle that no state can enact legislation in conflict with that of Congress. As applied to the enforcement of prohibition it will mean that, inasmuch as the Volstead Act prescribes national enforcement in all states, no single state or any number of states will be permitted to authorize the manufacture of a beverage containing more than one-half of the per cent of alchol by volume, or to do any other thing already forbidden by congressional statute.

"With the addition of Connellsville High School "Pep" to that of the "Fighting Tenth," the new Company D ought to be about the finest outfit in the reorganized 28th Division. And you can depend upon that being the case.

Has the Bituminous Coal Commission given another push to the "viscous cycle" of higher wages and higher costs of living?

Officers report having found a gallon of whisky in a safe in a "down-town" home. It is possible another of the now "missing" eight has been located, and in close proximity to the domicile of another "somebody" who persists in "pulling the plug."

Presidential commissions to boost the cost of living manage to keep a lap or two ahead of the Department of Justice's downward trend of prices.

The murder trials seem determined to make a record of acquittals this term of court.

Will Washington, Delaware or Tennessee have the honor of furnishing a "perfect 35" model for 1920 styles in suffrage?

If Secretary of War Baker, himself a lawyer, made an error in his income tax report to the extent of overpaying his tax by $120, what can be expected of the plain-citizen who tries to figure out this most bewildering of latter day puzzles?

It is well Senator Ashurst, the independent, outspoken Democrat, is not a member of the Cabinet; otherwise his remark about Fair F-13 MUST be posed to an irreconcilable in the White House as in the Senate" might be regarded as another case of "usurpation" of Presidential prerogatives.

What a pity there is not a whole bunch of Senator Blauch to make a record-breaking run to Washington to break some of the disk locks on Capitol Hill!

Under the decision of the United States Supreme Court that dividends in the form of stock are not subject to income tax, the industry of "melon sitting" may be expected to thrive at an amazing rate.

Three Connellsville basketball teams will play tonight, one at home and the other two away. At the High school the varsity will go against the Duquesne University team.

The American Legion team will go to Meyersdale this afternoon where the legion five of that place will be played tonight. Meyersdale, defeated here Monday, expects to win the game on their home floor.

The Unity Fraternity team will leave at 6:30 o'clock for Mount Pleasant to play the Superior team at the armory.

RITCHIE REINSTATED
Patrolman Is Put Back On Duty After Investigation By Council

Patrolman V. Bert Ritchie, suspended several days ago by the mayor for taking back his superior officer.
In line of duty was reinstated last night after an investigation had been conducted by the police committee of the city council. There was no hearing of the committee reporting there had been some misinformation concerning Ritchie's behavior.

Ritchie was also commended for his stand against accepting small forfeits from inmates of disorderly houses arrested in raids.

Get an ounce from your druggist and banish the freckles money back if it fails—Adv.
